PROJECTS

YouTube Channel:

- I built and have maintained a YouTube channel @RandomButCool for over five years, posting high-production videos daily on topics such as internet safety, server configuration, and account security. To produce these videos, I use industry-standard tools including vMix, Premiere Pro, After Effects, and DaVinci Resolve.

Proxmox Server:

- I created and maintain my personal home server, which is used by my entire family for media storage and consumption. I also host automation tools, such as n8n. I am very familiar with the terminal and use industry-standard software and hardware, including Ubiquiti networking and Proxmox hypervisor, to manage and create virtual machines and containers.

Web Apps Development:

- I developed a web application to help calculate the odds for the starting bet in Texas Hold'em. I created this app because I struggled with gaining chips in the game and wanted a tool that would remove emotion from preflop betting decisions. To develop the app, I used professional tools including VS Code, GitHub with branching, GitHub Copilot, and Cloudflare for hosting. Try the app at <https://poker.keel.me>.
